

WHAT TO SEE DURING THE WALK

The church dedicated to Saint Sylvestre dates from the Roman period, with some mouldings from the 14th century. The nave and the choir have been done again in the 19th century. At this occasion, some elements from the 12th century have been discovered. The bell tower and the roof have been renovated in 2004. In 2010, there were large workings of renovation (lime plaster, joints of bricks, stained-glass windows...).

The castle of La Grande Haye is a Louis XV edifice, which has kept his original environment: lovely park, moats and interesting wrought iron railings.

The building of the old spring “Cristal Chateau” has been renamed “Sylvaine” in the 1970’s. Then it has been bought out by the Roxane Company and resold to a private individual in the 1990’s.

The castle of La Petite Haye dates from the 18th century and has been done again in the 19th century. There are several outbuildings with agricultural use. This domain is the subject of large investments: an old agricultural barn has been converted into reception hall with luxury rooms. It’s running since 2009. There is too a pleasant fête.

You’ll walk on the dried valley of “La Bave” and in the hamlet of Bois-Branger. Then you’ll return in the village and you’ll see the stud farm “Mit’Hippik’Eure”.
